Let’s Get Started!
Math: Rote Counting

Rote counting is verbal counting. For early learners, that means counting up to 20, 30, or 50, depending on their age. You can try each activity in this learning plan for several days to give your child extra practice!
Count to 5

- Show your child how to count with fingers. Say, Let’s use our fingers to count to five!
- Show a fist. This means zero. There are no fingers!
- Count to five. Have your child practice several times without your help, if they are ready.
